Firemen Will Be Hosts to County Meeting June 23

Annual Lake County Meeting Here Open to Public; Events Planned

For the fourth year, members of the Antioch fire department will be hosts to the Lake County Firemen's association at its annual business meeting, to be held Monday evening, June 23.

The event will be open to the public, and as in other years, the main part of the evening, aside from the business session of an hour or so, will be somewhat of a gala affair.

Weather permitting, street dancing will be enjoyed.

The former location of the Chevrolet garage, in the rear of the Snow White ice cream store and the Antioch Recreation parlors, will be used as headquarters for the meeting.

Attracts Many Visitors

Many visitors from all parts of the county, as well as visiting firemen from other counties, have made it their custom to attend the gathering and enjoy its "Mardi Gras" atmosphere.

Heading the general committee for the affair are Fire Chief James Stearns, James McMillen, John Horan and Clarence Shultz.

At a meeting of the firemen some time next week, detailed plans for the meeting will be reviewed.

Garden Club Sponsors Flower Show June 20-21

Of unusual interest to nature lovers and home owners is the flower show sponsored by the Long Lake Garden club, which is to be held Friday and Saturday, June 20 and 21 at Grant Community High school at Fox Lake.

Flowering plants, table decorations and shadow box displays will be featured attractions at the show in which all growers of flowers may compete for prizes. Entries should be in by 11:00 a. m. June 20, according to Mrs. George Schaffer, committee chairman. The public is invited.

Christian Science Is Defined by Lecturer

"Today it is a matter of common knowledge that Christian Science is giving to those who study and apply it health of body, peace of mind and an ever-expanding hope for better things," Peter B. Biggins of Seattle, Wash., told his audience at a lecture given in the Christian Science temple here Monday evening.

His lecture, in part, continued as follows:

Christ Jesus made clear the basis of the application of Truth to the needs of humanity, when, in his Sermon on the Mount, he said, "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." He set forth the grand results of this correct application when, at the end of this discourse, he said, "Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock; and the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock." That rock is Christ, Truth. That is the rock on which the teaching of Christian Science is built. That is the foundation of its practice, the basis of its practical application to your needs and to mine.

Antioch Man Honored By Chevrolet Company

Frank Lux, manager of the service department at the R and J Chevrolet garage, is one of four men in this district of Northern Illinois who were chosen members of the "85" club. He has been presented with a gold pin and was a guest of the company at the Sox-Yankee baseball game Tuesday afternoon and at a banquet Tuesday evening.

Membership in the "85" club is based on outstanding service. There are about 41 or 42 Chevrolet service and parts dealers in the area from which the four men of whom Lux was one were chosen.

Play Highland Park Next Sunday at Sunset Park, 3 P. M.

Breaking a 5 to 5 tie with a three run rally in the eighth inning the Vernon A. C. defeated the Antioch Aces 5 to 8 last Sunday afternoon. Madsen and Wells yielded only 7 hits to the opposing team, but errors at critical times "blew" the game. Crandall for the locals made three hits one of which was tagged for three bases.

Next Sunday the Aces will journey to Highland Park for a game to be played at Sunset Park on Deerfield road at 3 p. m.

Wrestling Season Will Open at Arena Friday

Lake County sport lovers who have been trekking to Peg's Grayslake Sports arena every summer for the past seven years, are expected to turn out in great numbers Friday night, June 13, for the initial mat card of the 1941 season when two colorful figures in the world of sport, the Swedish Angel and Alberto "Killer" Macias battle one fall to a finish to retain their near-flawless professional wrestling records.

Macias, veteran of a score or more bloody bull fights in the famous bull ring in Mexico City, will probably enter the ring all decked out in his ten gallon straw sombrero, bright colored serape, and his medals of bull-fighting distinction.

In the semi-windup attraction are 6 ft. 6 in., 250 pound Friedrich von Schacht, powerful German giant, against Eddie Virag, 225 pound former Hungarian wrestling (Olympic) champion.

Rowdy Rudy Kay, Chicago's own gas-house klay, has placed on the initial card too, going against Vladimir Milich, the Paul Bunyan of sportdom who recently arrived in this country from Yugoslavia. Cross-country runner, weight-lifter, javelin and discus thrower, Milich was tops among most all of his countrymen in these sports, but best of all was his performance on the mat where he held the national championship for three years.

Another match on this card pits Karol Krauser, Adonis-like ringmaster from Poland, with rough-and-ready Gorilla Grubmyer.

'round the lakes

The Nineteenth Hole will celebrate its third anniversary with a party the evenings of June 20 and 21. Dancing outdoors on the terrace will be one of the features if weather permits.

Herman Meinersmann, Jr., is expected home Monday from Des Plaines, where he has been in the employ of the Chicago Roto-Front company. He will stay until Friday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Meinersmann, proprietors of the 19th Hole tavern and restaurant on Highway 59, before leaving to enter U. S. selective service training. Next Wednesday evening his parents are planning to entertain at a farewell party in his honor.

Robert Burke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben R. Burke, who completed his second year at Beloit college, returned home Thursday. Mrs. N. E. Sibley and Mrs. Burke drove to Beloit and accompanied him home.

The new officers will be installed at a meeting to be held Monday evening, June 23.

During the social part of the evening the motion picture, "Army on Wheels," was viewed.

"Little Things" are Important, Says Speaker

Russell L. Guin Gives Advice to A. T. H. S. Graduates

"Do not overlook the little things. One of them may prove to be a turning point in your career," Russell L. Guin of the Interstate Publishing company told members of the Antioch High school graduating class at commencement exercises Friday evening in the school auditorium.

Speaking in interesting, humorous fashion on the way in which "little things" can influence a person's life, Guin held the close attention of the gathering throughout his talk.

Diplomas to 49

Forty-nine seniors received their certificates of graduation from Arthur Maplethorpe, president of the high school board, as their names were announced by Principal J. O. Austin.

The program opened with a processional, "Sequoia," Pollock, played by Hans von Holwede.

The Rev. W. C. Henslee gave the invocation. Following the selection, "Onward Ye Peoples," Sibelius, sung by the high school chorus, the speaker was introduced.

Gilda Pierce and Gordon Good were featured in the duo, "Knowest Thou That Dear Land," Thomas, which precluded the presentation of diplomas. "Cherubim Song," Tkach, by the high school chorus, and the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by the entire gathering completed the graduation observances, for which the closing prayer was offered by the Rev. F. M. Flaherty.

Big Demand for Farm Workers is Forecast

With 5,000 men needed to harvest Illinois crops this season, farm labor is becoming difficult to get in many parts of the state, reports from the Illinois State Employment service indicate.

"Every day we are finding workers to fill important posts in defense industries," declares Mrs. F. D. Brandstetter, manager of the Waukegan State employment office, "but we must not neglect an equally important job—that of getting workers to harvest needed crops."

"We have farm jobs open right now throughout the state," Mrs. Brandstetter said, "and these jobs can be filled by many persons who are not available for defense production or military service."

Lake county workers interested in harvest jobs can register at the Illinois State Employment office, located at 20 South Utica street, Waukegan.

Airplane Base is Sought at Dunes Park on L. Mich.

Reps. Nick Keller, Harold Kelsey of Barrington and Thomas Bolger of McHenry are sponsors of a resolution introduced Tuesday in the Illinois house of representatives. The resolution would make possible the development of Dunes Park as a state airport and seaplane base for the Great Lakes, Fort Sheridan and Camp Logan rifle range, in addition to becoming a state park, and would make it possible for the state director of public works and buildings to obtain title to the property.

The resolution was adopted unanimously by the house.

Dunes Park borders Lake Michigan, between Waukegan and Zion. It is now privately owned, but is available to the state at a price only slightly in excess of that now being paid for adjacent farm land, according to report. The resolution, entered as House Resolution No. 59, states that Illinois at present owns no park bordering on the shores of Lake Michigan, and requests that the state public works director "take such action as may be necessary to obtain title to the property in the name of the State of Illinois for park purposes."

James E. Manning Dies at Fox Lake

James E. Manning, who had been a hotel operator at Fox Lake since 1911, and had many friends in this region, died June 8, aged 72, after a brief illness. Funeral services were held Wednesday at the chapel on Grand avenue, Fox Lake, with burial in Grant cemetery. Manning was at one time a boxer, and was known as an authority on sports, and race horses. He is survived by his wife, Catherine, and a sister, Mrs. Wallace Allen of Los Angeles, Calif.

Mrs. William Kufalk, who underwent an operation at the Kenosha hospital Monday, is reported to be getting along fairly well.

At His Worst

Mr. Roosevelt appears at his worst when, from the vantage of his powerful position, he stoops to attack a private citizen personally and with invective. Such an attack upon Senator Wheeler some months ago recoiled against him. In singling out Col. Lindbergh as a special target of abuse in his press conference recently, he took away some of the dignity and luster of his great office. Invective and billingsgate are the usual thing from Ike and his ilk, but not from a President of the United States.

Col. Lindbergh may be as wrong about England's chances as a man can be—and it is not difficult to believe that he hopes that he is—but whatever his secret wishes he has cleaved to the line of warning his countrymen of the situation abroad as he sees it.

This has required courage of the strongest sort. That is more than can be said of his high positioned opponents who pretended that administration policies were keeping the United States out of war, until now, when the pretense has worn to thin that it can no longer be kept up.

200,000,000 vs. 70,000,000

Mr. Churchill remarked that there are 70,000,000 Germans and 200,000,000 British and Americans. Of these, 130,000,000 are Americans. Mr. Churchill again called for a finish fight. Which gives us this thought:

Suppose Hitler carves out the Ukraine wheat fields and the Baku oil fields for himself—or, alternatively, makes a deal with Russia for their produce—and then says he is finished with conquest and intends to organize his "new order" in Europe, and that if Britain wants to stop him Britain will have to come to Europe to do it. As things look now, only a big land invasion of Europe can get that result if Hitler chooses to sit tight on his European conquests and to defend them from interior lines against all comers.

Well, who will be expected to furnish most of the invading forces: the 70,000,000 Britishers in the world, or the 130,000,000 Americans? And if a series of AEF's and BEF's, after a long, bloody and unimaginably costly war, do succeed in smashing Hitler, what shall we have at home to show for it?

Our guess is that we shall have a revolution.

New Deal Poem

Blessings on thee, little man, barefoot boy with cheek of tan; trudging down the dusty lane, with no thought of future pain. You're the one and only bet to absorb the nation's debt. Little man with cares so few, we've a lot of faith in you; guard each merry whistled tune, you are apt to need them soon. Have your fun now while you can—you may be a barefoot man!

According to the Gallup poll, 79 per cent of the people of the United States are opposed to War. It would be interesting to know how many of the 21 per cent favoring it are over 50 years of age.

If the men who are loudly demanding we go to war were of the age and physical condition to go into the training camps we doubt whether there would be so many men loudly demanding hostilities.

Some economists tell us the way to stop national spending is to make all the people tax conscious. Well, we are soon going to see whether or not that idea works.

The President told us early in the New Deal administration if any experiment failed he would be the first to acknowledge it. He now frankly says that changing the date of Thanksgiving has proved a disappointment. So far as we know, hiking the debt forty billions, pump priming and tax raising have been successful in their objectives.

Neumann. She returned home to be god-mother to Mr. and Mrs. Ben Elverman's baby.

Commencing Sunday, June 22, there will be an 11:00 o'clock mass at the Holy Name church. There will be 4 masses every Sunday morning: 6, 8, 10 and 11 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ganzlin were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Matthews of Antioch.

Monday afternoon Mrs. Herbert Sarbacher entertained Mrs. Paul Ganzlin, Mrs. Winn Peterson and Mrs. Louis Rausch at bridge.

The ladies of the Peace Lutheran congregation under the sponsorship of the Ladies' Aid society are giving a bazaar and chicken supper on Wednesday, June 18, at the church hall. The bazaar opens at 2:00 p. m., and the supper will be served from 5 o'clock on until all are served.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Yahnke were Sunday evening callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Stoxen.

There will be confirmation exercises at the Holy Name church on Thursday, June 19th, at 11 o'clock. Over 30 members of the parish will be confirmed.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Stoxen were Saturday evening callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Stoxen and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Dix of Salem.

There will be a dance at the Twin Lakes ballroom Friday evening, June 13, for the benefit of the Wilnot baseball club. The Silver Derby orchestra of Burlington will furnish the music. Mrs. Anna Pacey and son, Mrs. E. O'Donnell and children and Mrs. Lester Kanpt of Milwaukee were weekend guests of Mrs. Hattie Pacey.

Commencement exercises of Wilnot High school were held Thursday, June 5, with 53 receiving diplomas. This was the largest class in the history of the school.

School closed Friday, June 6, with the teachers leaving for their respective homes: Ruth Thomas, West Salem, Wis.; Winnie Duke, Viola, Wis.; Oswald Barth, Darlington, Wis.;

Mildred Berger, Genoa City, Wis.; Charles Engel, Milwaukee, Wis.; Ruth Bosselman, Bassett, Wis. Mr. and Mrs. Herman Frank and children were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Horton of Antioch.

"I do a lot of arranging these fine days . . ."

HAVE you ever thought how hard it would be to get a group of people together for a swim, or golf, or a picnic, if it weren't for the telephone? Take this party, for instance. Bob had the idea at noon on Saturday. Made a few calls. And presto! the whole crowd gathered for a fine afternoon of fun.

People take telephone service pretty much for granted—and that's the way it should be. But the 26,000 men and women of the Illinois Bell Telephone Company don't take it for granted. They try to keep every telephone in this area ready for instant action day and night. It's quite a job—but telephone people take pride in doing a good job. And that's one reason, probably, why the people here and in all America always have enjoyed the finest telephone service in the world. . . .

PROGRESS IN WORLD MISSIONS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 13:44-52; Galatians 3:26-29.
GOLDEN TEXT—For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus.—Galatians 3:26.

"All people" are included in God's plan of redemption. When the angel of the Lord announced the birth of Christ to the shepherds he said, "Fear not: for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people" (Luke 2:10). The invitation is: "Let him that is athirst come. And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely" (Rev. 22:17). The disciples naturally and properly first preached the gospel to the Jews, but the time came when God was ready to send them to the Gentiles, that they too might hear the message of redemption. That historic turning point is found in our lesson. As Paul and his fellow workers proceeded from Paphos on the isle of Cyprus to the mainland with their message of Christ's redemption, they met both

I. Popularity and Persecution (Acts 13:44, 45).

In the synagogue of Antioch of Pisidia they were invited to preach, and Paul was blessed in the presentation of a powerful gospel message. Read it in Acts 13:44-45. It met with such a response that the people "besought that these words might be preached to them the next Sabbath" (v. 42). So great was the popularity of Paul's message that the whole city came the next Sabbath "to hear the Word of God." What a wonderful sight that must have been and how the disciples must have rejoiced as they preached the Word.

But wait—there's a worm in that red apple of popularity, and its name is jealousy (v. 45). It caused the Jews to blaspheme as they contradicted Paul's preaching. Jealousy always makes a fool out of the one who yields to it. Yet this green-eyed monster is permitted to go right on destroying, hindering, hurting. In the church and the home, as well as in the social order, we let jealousy come in and wreck friendship, break down reputations, yes, even block the work of God. May someone learn the lesson of our text and turn away from that evil way—right now!

II. Rejection and Acceptance (Acts 13:46-52).

All through the record of Scripture and the history of man to this day we find some rejecting the grace of God—others accepting. Those who reject only prove themselves "unworthy of eternal life" (v. 46) and are themselves rejected of God.

The disciples now turn from the Jews to minister to the Gentiles, even as had been prophesied (Isa. 42:6; 49:6; Luke 2:31, 32). They accepted the word of truth and "were glad, and glorified the word of God." Rejection brought eternal death, but acceptance brought eternal life and joy.

They could not keep the good news to themselves, but had to spread it abroad. A lighted candle begins at once to shine. A redeemed soul longs to bring others to Christ. Persecution continued; in fact, was intensified to the point of physical ejection of the disciples. Were they downhearted? No! for the joy of the Lord filled their Holy Spirit-filled lives. Being filled with the Spirit means being filled with joy, even in the midst of persecution.

It really works! Have you given God a chance to prove it in your life?

III. Neither Jew nor Greek (Gal. 3:26, 27).

This selection from the letter which Paul wrote some ten years later to the people of the area in which he had now preached reveals the same truth, that faith in Christ is primary—and essential—in Christian experience.

In this early life we recognize distinctions based on nationality, sex, social position, and many other grounds. While these are overemphasized by most people, they are legitimate and necessary distinctions. But in Christ—ah! there the differences disappear. We are all one in Him (v. 26). This is a lesson which we have not learned even yet, but our slowness of heart and mind does not alter God's truth.

The church is talking much these days about ecumenicity, which in plain words means the unity of the people of the various branches of the church all over the world. All too often, however, the proposed basis of unity rests on a surrender or a partial surrender of what Paul declares to be the essential (the sine qua non if you wish), which is faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. No other unity but that which centers in Him, and a personal relationship to Him, is sufficient either for this life or for the life to come.

MORE PROFITS IN SAVING PIGS

Did you know that approximately a third of all pigs that are farrowed never live to reach marketable age?

Most of these losses occur within the first few weeks of life and are largely preventable if farmers will take advantage of knowledge now available.

Among the common causes of losses are Brucellosis, scours, still births, chilling, pneumonia, crushing under sows, sore mouth, swine erysipelas, hog cholera, enteritis, and suckling anemia.

First step in prevention of such losses is healthy breeding stock that is properly immunized against cholera. All pigs should likewise be immunized around weaning time. Brood sows must not only have an ample supply of calcium, phosphorus and iodine in their rations while carrying their pigs but must also have plenty of food containing Vitamin A and Vitamin D. Lack of a proper intake of animal protein (tankage or meat scraps) may result in so-called "three day" deaths in baby pigs.

Scours and pneumonia while due to virulent germs are predisposed by wet, poorly ventilated or unsanitary hog houses as well as Vitamin A deficient sow rations. Crushing of newborn pigs may be avoided by use of guard rails in the farrowing pens. Suckling pig anemia, which usually occurs in the second to fourth week after birth, is prevented by tossing a square of clean sod into each pig pen or by painting the sow's udder with a mixture of iron and copper. Killing parasites may be largely avoided by scrubbing the sow's udder just before farrowing, keeping the house floors clean and trucking the pigs and sows to clean pastures. Dulling the tusk teeth of the young pigs prevents sore mouth due to bite wounds, while protective serum will block infection with erysipelas. With market hogs bringing better prices and the government calling for more pigs, it is possible to increase the pig crop at least 20 percent with out use of more brood sows if all farmers will center their attention on prevention of baby pig losses. Immunization of all pigs at weaning time against hog cholera is, of course, one of the most important items to remember.

down the aisle. The bride was given in marriage by her grandfather, Mr. Hansen of Chicago.

Herbert Luckritz, Donald Sams and Edward Wade were the bridegroom's attendants and Edward Hogle, William Gallagher and Walter Harris were ushers. William Ehert of North Chicago, accompanied by Hans Von Holwede sang two solos preceding the ceremony.

A reception at the home of the bride was held for many relatives and friends.

The bride is employed at the telephone office in Waukegan and the bridegroom is employed at the Abbott laboratories. For the present they are living with the bride's mother at Lake Villa.

Gilkerson-Johnston

The home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Gilkerson, Libertyville, was the scene of the wedding at which Miss Betty Jane Gilkerson became the bride of Robert B. Johnston, Albion, Ill., son of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Johnston. The Rev. Roland Hallock of the Waukegan Community church officiated at the ceremony, which was held last Wednesday. The bride's costume included a handkerchief which had been brought from England 75 years ago and had been carried by her mother, her grandmother, and a great-great aunt at their weddings. She also wore a brooch which had belonged to the bridegroom's grandmother.

Murrie-Lassen

Planning to make their home on Rt. 173 are Mr. and Mrs. Knute Lassen, whose marriage took place June 2 at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Lawrence Thayer.

The Rev. Walter McArthur of Lake Villa officiated at the ceremony, for which the bride, who was Miss Alice Murrie of Highland Park, wore white dotted swiss muslin and carried a bouquet of white garden flowers.

Miss Catherine Murrie attended her sister as bridesmaid, wearing pink dotted swiss muslin, with a corsage of pink flowers.

Arthur Lassen, cousin of the bridegroom, acted as best man.

A reception, with 40 guests attending, was held in the Thayer home.

Arnold-Kintzel

Spending a week of their honeymoon at Grass Lake are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kintzel, whose wedding took place in Chicago June 5.

The bride is the former Miss Gertrude Arnold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Arnold of Grass Lake. The bridegroom is from Chicago, but is with the U. S. army at Camp Hancock, Mich., and is at present on a two weeks' leave.

The VELVET you ride on

ROUGH ROADS and boulevards all look alike to the '41 Ford—they're all paved with velvet!—thanks to those long, slow-motion springs and velvet-action hydraulic shock absorbers. Now, for the first time in the low-price field, you get that luxurious velvet ride you expect only in big, costly cars.

The VELVET you save

AND THESE big 6-passenger velvet-riding Ford "Special" sedans are actually the lowest-priced sedans among the low-price leaders! There's velvet on first cost. And here's more velvet: In the Gilmore-Grand Canyon Economy Test, the Ford record was over 23 miles per gallon. And still more velvet when you trade in your present car on a 1941 Ford.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

Current War Front Shifts to Syria With Oil Fields of Iraq as Prize; 'Draft Everything' Legislation Aims To Break Strikes in Defense Plants

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

'WAR' IN U. S.

Citizens of Bear Mountain, N. Y., received a taste of what actual war attack might mean when the coast artillery and West Point cadets put on a dive-bombing attack and anti-aircraft defense of a big bridge near that point. Guns and equipment used were in same positions they would actually occupy in an actual battle for defense of the bridge.

DEFENSE: Production

Returning foreign correspondents, making a junket of the defense production industries as guests of the war department, found that airplane motors, considered one of the potential bottlenecks, are being rushed into production at one plant in Connecticut to the tune of 1,400,000 horsepower monthly.

One official of this concern, reviewing what he knew of the potential production of this industry, predicted that between 70,000 and 100,000 airplane engines will be turned out during 1941-42.

The total airplane industry, from a motor standpoint, should eventually be turning out 10,000,000 horsepower a month.

While these producers had no accurate figures on Axis production, it was figured that it might be between 3,000,000 and 5,000,000 a month at the present time, with future capabilities unfigured.

In addition to the three great American aviation motor concerns' output, the automotive industry has been asked for some, and while not in production yet, they will eventually contribute a large percentage of the total.

This turned the pages back to World War I when America's most important fighting airplane motor, the Liberty, was turned out in quantity in a leading automotive factory.

This factory also, by the way, was making the recoil mechanism for the 75-millimeter gun—then a war bottleneck.

DRAFT:

'Everything'

A stiff fight against President Roosevelt's "draft everything" measure sent to the congress closely following his "freedom speech" appeared likely, though the administration forces seemed willing enough to modify the measure from its first draft.

The President softened the shock of the measure, which at first sight looked like an effort toward a complete economic dictatorship, by a later announcement that its major purpose was to permit the administration to break strikes in defense industries, which were still a knotty problem all over the nation.

Both Senator Byrd of Virginia and Senator Tydings of Maryland had taken the floor to demand that the President himself take the leadership in halting strikes, Byrd saying:

"There are 60 to 70 strikes in defense industries, and new ones are occurring every day. I don't assume the government would want to take over and operate all these plants."

"A prohibition against strikes and compulsory arbitration would be a better method."

The bill, which in its original form would give the President, under his proclamation of a state of unlimited emergency power to seize and sell anything in the nation's long list of private property, found its first compromise offer coming from administration leaders in the form of a time limit on the President's powers, together with a proviso that congress must first itself declare a national emergency before they could be used.

Labor-minded members of both houses, wildly suspicious of the measure, started their own investigation to try to determine its origin.

U-BOATS:

Bigger Range

Sinkings of eight British ships by torpedoes fired from U-boats revealed that the German submarine, instead of being a smaller vessel with a shorter range operating in greater quantity, is becoming a bigger boat with a bigger range.

Some of these reported sinkings took place within 700 miles of the United States, well within the supposed neutrality patrol area.

WAR:

On New Front

The collapse of the Greco-British defense of Crete was followed by a good deal of backing and filling as the forces of Great Britain wondered where the axe was going to fall next.

The preponderance of British belief was that it would be in Syria, and two things happened at once: The British started mobilizing toward Syria and began air attacks on Syrian points, and the French started propaganda efforts to prove that they needed German aid to repel British attack.

The British countered by announcing, via their Turkish friends, that Germany already had landed 20,000 men in civilian dress, who would doff their tourist garb and take up arms just as soon as sea-borne transports landed them.

Also the British asserted that 400 German planes were already at Syrian airdromes, ready for an attack on Iraq's British army from bases supplied in defiance of Franco-British friendship, by agreement with the Petain government headed by Darlan.

The observers in this country were not fooled by this sort of diplomatic hyplay, and were able to recognize the same maneuvers, with some variations, that had preceded the German occupation of the Balkans and the subsequent blitz attack upon Greece.

Britain's plan was not only a delaying action, but because of the peculiar location of the immensely valuable Mosul oil field, to try to get into Syria first, while the German "tourists" were still unarmed, and to destroy the landing fields there if possible.

Home Front

Churchill's government, taking a great deal of criticism because of the Crete disaster, because many British people thought the Crete battle might have been won if better handled, now found itself with an intensely serious problem on its hands.

There were signs that "authorized sources" in Britain were preparing the public as gently as might be for a practical abandonment of the Mediterranean as a naval control area since the loss of Crete, and one announcement flatly said that American aid must hurry if it was to get to the Red sea and Suez in time to get to the British forces in North Africa.

The British were expecting air-borne attacks on Malta, Cyprus, Alexandria and Suez, but whether the Germans would attempt parachute troop operations after their huge losses in Crete was doubtful.

In fact, the Turkish slant on the attempt to land in Syria was that sea-borne invasion would be carried out. A dozen or more large ships were to carry supplies to Syria via the Dodecanese islands, and from there it would be possible, Turkey said, to land in Syria by an over-night sailing under cover of darkness.

Five hundred motorized troops had made such a trip, Turkey said, though France vigorously denied it. Harking back to the days when Weygand's Near-East army was estimated at 750,000 men, figures were now being given out in allied circles that De Gaulle had an army of 250,000 men at the present time.

Loyal to Vichy?

The stories about the first Nazis landing in Syria, in fact, stated that they were being sent in to "straighten out" the French forces in Syria, whose loyalty to the Vichy government was in question.

There had been many reports of disaffected troops leaving Syria before the German infiltration to free into Palestine, there to join the Free French, but just how much of this had occurred was largely a matter of conjecture.

Urges Arms Boost

Stacy May, research chief of OPM, is pictured as he told the senate defense committee that the gigantic American armament program must be doubled to aid Great Britain and other nations in overcoming the German advantage in production. He proposed that the goal of spending twenty billion dollars next year for arms be increased to forty billions.

DOORN:

End of Road

The death of former Kaiser Wilhelm at 82 of a blood clot on the lung and the elaborate military funeral accorded him by the dictator of Germany, Adolf Hitler, former Austrian paperhanger, brought an odd and dramatic close to a long and interesting career.

The man who was so much in the forefront of the last war that the slogan "Hang the Kaiser" was on the lips of half the Allied soldiers, died after 22 years of exile after a ripe and peaceful old age, even in the midst of a present war which had brought the conquering hordes of his former country in triumph to his point of exile at Doorn, Holland.

Yet, even in this triumph, though the Germans could have brought the Hohenzollern monarch back to his throne had their desire been to do so, this was not done, and the kaiser and his family remained in exile, there for death to find him while the issue of the fate of his country was still in doubt.

However, the relations between Hitler-controlled Germany and the former monarch were as odd as the position of the civilized world at the time of the kaiser's death. Hitler seemed filled with respect and homage to his former monarch, though what the kaiser thought of the humbly born Austrian who succeeded him was little in evidence, and mattered just as little.

Hitler's final move—to order a funeral with full military honors, was the last there was in the news about the lord of the Hohenzollerns.

GASOLINE:

An Issue

No sooner had Secretary Ickes suggested "gasless Sundays" as a means of controlling the oil supply of the country than administration critics began asking embarrassing questions.

How could this country, with control of half the world's oil supply, be facing an oil shortage?

How did it happen that American concerns were selling oil and its products to Japan? To Russia? To other countries via which it might get into Axis hands?

The defense investigating committee in congress was asking some of these questions, and getting strange answers. The Standard Oil company had to explain the deal to its stockholders, and this brought the issue into more prominence.

The oil concern admitted the sale of oil and gasoline (except the 100-octane airplane gas) to Japan, but said that when the agreement was made the British, American and Dutch governments were consulted, and that the terms were entirely acceptable to all three.

It was one of the puzzling phases of America's defense effort.

SEA WAR:

Claims

Berlin, having claimed that half of Britain's entire merchant ship strength had been destroyed, asserted that the total had reached 11,000,000 tons.

Britain admitted six millions. Both agreed that British pre-war strength had totaled around 21 millions or 22 millions of tons.

The German claim was that, her ships sunk, Britain was "bleeding to death," and that a speedup of airplane attacks on merchant ships and war vessels might be expected.

The British, still anxious for shipping aid from the United States, expressed gratification that the United States, as announced, would immediately start picking up the British shipping lines in the Orient and the Pacific, thus freeing many vessels for the carrying of munitions abroad.

Most observers, while believing that the German claims were excessive, admitted that the ship losses were tremendously heavy, and that it was one of Britain's most serious challenges of the war.

Come on! Drive a Car with "Second Wind"!

YOU say a racehorse has "heart!" when he can turn on the drive coming into the stretch and bring the crowd to its feet with an all-out finish.

Ok—come try a car that can turn on extra wallop like water from a tap — and see what you would say about Compound Carburetion!†

For this stunning Buick straight-eight swings you along sweetly on only half-carburetion as long as you're taking it easy in everyday sort of travel.

But step down on the gas treadle — and things happen.

A second carburetor opens up. Air supply as well as gas supply is increased. Power rises instantly. You get your "stretch drive" any time you give the word.

But — this isn't only for thrill.

This engine's actually more efficient because it has this "second wind."

It gives you a car that has the life and lift you like — and still delivers (on owners' say-so) as much as 10% to 15% more miles per gallon than previous Buicks did.

That would be important any time; it's all the more important now—at the low delivered prices your Buick dealer is asking.

Obedience to Law

We are all familiar with the statement, "When they are at Rome, they do as the Romans do." In other words, follow the custom of the land in which you are living. The writer remembers very vividly stepping out of an underground train in a London station and making her way to the street, greatly impeded by the oncoming rush of people. When she reached the street, she realized suddenly what was wrong. She had been holding to the right side of the passage as one does in America, when all the time she should have been keeping to the left. She knew the law, but for the moment forgot to make use of it. Much confusion and discomfort could have been avoided by walking with Londoners while she was in London.

In his letter to the Galatians, Paul writes (5:25), "If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit." The words, "If we live in the Spirit," imply that we actually do live there. Let us then obey the laws of Spirit; let us prove that we are the children of Spirit, God. The opposite of Spirit is matter; therefore we do not live in matter. Why, then, should we fear or obey the so-called laws of matter? Living in the realm of Spirit, we find the way to walk in the Spirit.

To "walk in the Spirit" means to walk in the light of spiritual understanding, to follow the leadings of Truth. It means to avoid human will and let God direct our ways. We need to be receptive to the truth, allow God's plan to unfold in our consciousness, taking one step at a time. Even as the children of Israel were guided by a pillar of cloud by day and of fire by night, so shall we be guided in all our activities. We may be tempted to follow the broad highway of materiality with its false appetites, pleasures, and pains, or to wander away into one of the many intriguing by-ways that lead to sin, disease, unhappiness, and death. If we are wise, we shall stay close to the straight and narrow path, keeping our eyes always on the goal of spiritual understanding, for this path leads to health, holiness, and joy unspeakable.

The law of Spirit is the law of Life. Christ Jesus knew the Mosaic Decalogue, which was divinely revealed to Moses, and obeyed it, as evidenced by his words and works, recorded in the New Testament. When asked which was the greatest of all the commandments, our Master replied (Mark 12:29-31): "The Lord our God is one Lord; and thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength: this is the first commandment. And the second is like, namely this, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. There is none other commandment greater than these."

In referring to the First Commandment, Mary Baker Eddy writes (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, p. 340): "... The divine Principle of the First Commandment bases the Science of being, by which man demonstrates health, holiness, and life eternal. One infinite God, good, unifies men and nations; constitutes the brotherhood of man; ends wars; fulfills the Scripture, 'Love thy neighbor as thyself'; annihilates pagan and Christian idolatry, — whatever is wrong in social, civil, criminal, political, and religious codes; equalizes the sexes; annuls the curse on man, and leaves nothing that can sin, suffer, be punished or destroyed."

To know the "one infinite God, good," is the need of the world today. We must obey the law of Spirit or we shall find ourselves trampled upon by oncoming erroneous beliefs — beliefs of hatred, envy, revenge, poverty, suffering, bloodshed, and violence. It is not enough to know about the law of God. We must understand it and make use of it in all our thinking and living. — The Christian Science Monitor.

Training For Defense

By Rufus T. Strohm

Dean, International Correspondence Schools

Rufus T. Strohm

TWO industries, aviation and shipbuilding, are pushing ahead with increasing speed to meet the pressing demands of a national emergency. Orders and more orders have piled up as plant expansion and tooling problems have received the major consideration. Another problem concerns the shortage of trained men.

Both shipbuilding and airplane construction might be considered romantic occupations by the young man starting his first job. However, the actual fabrication of ships and airplanes calls for the most exacting, skillful type of workmen. Romance there may be when the finished products are in the air or on the sea, but before a ship or an airplane is placed in service it must be as near perfect as man can fashion it.

New building techniques have been developed for both industries. Twenty years ago shipyards roared with the sound of riveting guns. Today these yards are less glamorous, for the flash of the welding arc and the sound of the gas torch indicate the vogue of the "all-welded" ship. Revolutionary changes have been developed also for the aircraft industry.

Ships of the sea and ships of the air are put together by the most skilled men. To train such men takes time, more time than may be granted us to prepare for defense. To shorten the training period, management has adopted various types of instruction. Much studying must be done by the apprentice in his spare time. Never before has he had such a great moral responsibility. Here is the real test. It rests with every individual. Opportunity is here for the man who is trained and willing.
